

piedmont biofuels interns wanted

Piedmont Biofuels is a biodiesel cooperative and produce farm located just outside of Pittsboro, North Carolina. We are looking for potential interns to live, work and breathe the world of biodiesel for the upcoming Spring semester of 2007. The internship is full-time, and follows the curriculum of the biofuels course offered at Central Carolina Community College. Free housing is provided on the premises of a functioning small-scale biodiesel refinery. Firewood for home heating and delicious heirloom vegetables from the farm also included. The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong work ethic, a commitment to understanding energy use, sustainability, community living, an interest in biodiesel, and the desire to work tirelessly to make the world a better place.
